Sierra Club suit

Mori says I-580 compromise is near

Approval of negotiations between state officials and the Sierra Club over the suit to halt the widening of I-580 will be formalized when federal agencies approve the compromise resolution, Assemblyman Floyd Mori told the Dublin Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

The compromise was sent to the federal Departments of Transportation and Justice and should be signed within the next week.

Negotiations with the Sierra Club were "the strategy of the governor's office to avoid litigation," Mori said, adding delay would have forced the "re-prioritization of highway funds ... in our case the possible elimination of those funds."

The Sierra Club filed suit Apr. 15 to halt the proposed widening to eight lanes, and has been negotiating with the state for a compromise.

"The results of the negotiations will be a six-lane freeway," Mori said, adding the adjustments in design were made in a four-foot change in the shoulder of the road.

Six lanes will run from Dublin to Eden Canyon Road, and eight from Eden Canyon through Castro Valley.

According to Mori, negotiators concluded that eight lanes were not necessary east of Eden Canyon since a large portion of traffic would leave the freeway in Castro Valley.

The six-lane compromise consists of two 12-foot vehicle lanes and a 12-foot bus/carpool lane, the latter separated from the vehicle lanes by an eight-foot shoulder and pylons.

The freeway will be divided by a 40-foot median planned for future rapid transit.

"The possibility for future expansion to four lanes (each way) is still there," Mori said, adding officials may look at the project again in 1982 when the expansion is completed.

Phase one of the project, scheduled for completion in 1979, will encompass the 6.6 miles between Foothill Road and Eden Canyon at a cost of $33 million.

Phase two entails the eight lanes through Castro Valley to Redwood Road, and phase three the middle portion to Eden Canyon Road.

Mori said he "agrees with the intent to eliminate the postponement," and "feels good" about the compromise, even though "it's not what we looked at (initially)."

"It's a satisfactory solution to our problem," he added.

He took special note of his constituents' concern over "secret meetings" through the negotiations defeating the principle of democracy, but pointed to the benefits of avoiding a long court battle and the possibility of losing priority funds.

"(The compromise) came out in the best interests of the Valley," he said, noting the Sierra Club has postponed construction of Los Angeles' Century Freeway for some 10 years.

Mori was emphatic when he said "Yes," he did think the seven-year, $110 million package was worth it, adding he "questions the cost - effectiveness of BART (Bay Area Rapid Transit) rails coming to the Valley."

"I'd just as soon subsidize an effective bus system," he said.

MALPRACTICE

Medical malpractice insurance is "very complex," he said, with "many, many inter-related problems."

Attitudes in society have changed during the past 15 years, according to Mori, with people demanding their rights. Now, however, they're saying "give us our rights (but) without any cost involved."

The problem, he emphasized, is not with the legislature, which had introduced several bills before the advent of the "crisis," but throughout the system.

"The legislative process takes time," he said, adding it should in order to represent all segments of society.

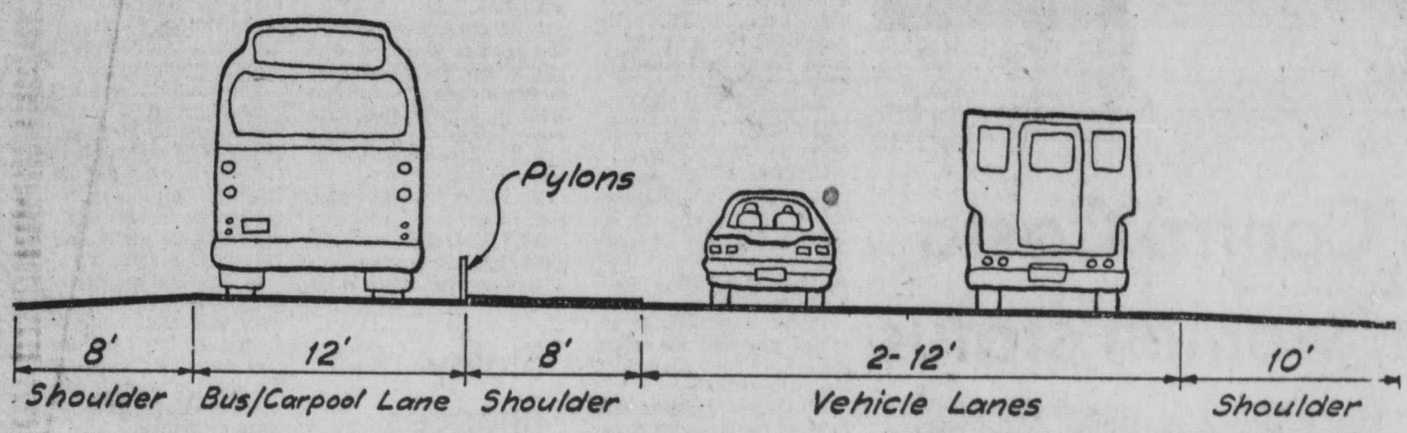
Mori predicts successful legislation possibly entailing fixed attorneys' fees based on a sliding scale, a strengthened, more powerful, state board of medical examiners, an arbitration board to settle small claims, and an examination of insurance companies' methods of establishing rates in two weeks to a month.

Insurance rates won't remain at their old levels, he emphasized, but perhaps the "crisis" will be solved.

Mori is one of many co - authors of the legislature's special session on meeting the medical malpractice dilemma.

Doctors are going to be more careful, he said, and that's going to cost more money. "Improvement of services are not going to be free," he concluded.

— by Ron Rodriguez



I-580 proposed compromise would be two 12-foot lanes and a 12-foot bus - carpool lane separated by shoulder and pylons. The above diagram from Assemblyman Floyd Mori depicts one half the freeway. A 40-foot rapid transit median would be in the center, to the left of the bus.

City gears for annual 'Firemen's Muster'

PLEASANTON — That annual hose, ladder and pumper extravaganza known as Firemen's Muster is gearing up for an expanded two-day run this time around and will be held May 31 and June 1 at the Fairgrounds.

Organized by the Pleasanton Fire Department with the Fire Wives getting in on the action, too, the event annually draws thousands from throughout the valley and all over Northern California.

Fifty per cent of all proceeds go to Pleasanton youth sports, another percentage is earmarked for Muscular Dystrophy and the remainder is put back into the Firemen's Muster fund.

One of the highlights every year is the parade of fire relics down Santa Rita and Main Streets. This year's parade is Sunday, June 1 starting at 10:30 a.m. from in front of Amador Valley High School. The pumpers, fire wagons and other hose units will travel down Main to Bernal and then to the Fairgrounds.

A pancake breakfast will open the two-day hijinx on Saturday, May 31 from 7:30 a.m. to 11 at the Fairgrounds cafeteria.

The bucket brigade competition is scheduled for 10 a.m. on the 31st near the grandstand and lawn area at the Fairgrounds. Also scheduled for the 31st are a motorized contest, featuring old fire engine and hose units, at 12:30 p.m., a barbecue in the area next to the Historical Society's museum (4 p.m.), and a dance from 8:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Fairgrounds cafeteria.

A wine tasting hosted by Villa Armando and a cheese tasting by Standard Cheese will take place during the barbecue Saturday.

Admission to the dance is $1.50 per person and $2.50 per couple.

A pancake breakfast will also leadoff Sunday's activities, from 7:30 to 10 a.m. at the Fairgrounds cafeteria. The parade follows at 10:30 a.m. and the hand pumper contest at 11:30 a.m. The latter will go to about 3 p.m. when the hose cart races are scheduled.

The various competitions go toward state championship points.

Captain Doug Cracraft of the Pleasanton Fire Department reminds that there will be plenty of bleachers setup around the competition area.

Fire Wives will man the food and drink concessions at the Fairgrounds.

Labor leaders threaten county strike if supervisors don't extend deadline

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND - Four county labor leaders told the Alameda County Board of Supervisors Tuesday they may well face a strike if the board does not extend the deadline for wage talks.

More important to the labor officials than the actual deadline — which is today — is the county's policy not to make salary increases retroactive to July 1, 1975, if the wage packages are not signed by today.

The board voted 4-1 Tuesday to allow a two-week time extension (if the packages are not agreed upon today) but did not make those increases retroactive. What that means is salary increases to county employees will become effective July 15, 1975, not July 1, 1975.

Randall Prevo, representing Local 616 of the Alameda County Employees Association, urged the board not to destroy the "amiable employdr-employee relations" by "setting July 1 as the effective date of salary increases regardless of when negotiations cease."

Prevo also took issue with the May 22 deadline for winding up negotiations, although the board explained that was a state-mandated deadline.

County Administrator Loren Enoch expressed serious concerns about establishing a precedent of retroactivity for wage increases "regardless of when negotiations cease."

He said, "We are tied into annual appropriations and the salary and budget must be inter-related." Enoch also said the county unions were notified in January that negotiations could begin at any time, and "the first written response we had was in mid-April."

Enoch also said he believed "retroactivity with no close date does not give an incentive to reach a settlement."

Dave Watkins, representing Local 250, said their negotiations began April 15 and "we have had nearly a dozen meetings." He noted the union has reduced its demands from 82 to 18 and said that showed a willingness on the part of the union to come to a peaceful settlement.

Dave Kramer of Local 535 also asked for more time to reach a settlement "We have not had enough time to work it through," he said. "We need three, four, five more days."

Dick Groulx of the Alameda County Central Labor Council warned the board that, while the county unions "were reluctant to strike you two years ago" but they would not be so reluctant in 1975.

If the county does not allow a two-week extension with retroactivity of pay increases, Groulx added, "you're buying yourself a strike."

Groulx also urged the board to make the retroactivity issue a "negotiable item."

Chairman Fred Cooper replied the unions were free to discuss that with the county's negotiator, James Marshall, but added the board's position was that no retroactivity be granted.

Supervisor Tom Bates was the sole opponent to the vote to allow the extension (if it is necessary) but to deny retroactivity. "I think retroactivity should be negotiable," Bates said.

Update on sewers tonight

DUBLIN — A status report on the sewer situation will be presented tonight at a joint meeting between the Pleasanton City Council and Valley Community Services District Board of Directors.

At present, the Environmental Protection Agency is reviewing the plans of the two communities to determine the amount of capacity that will be allowed in any future plant expansion.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. tonight at the Shannon Community Center, 11600 Shannon Ave.

Three voting places prepared for Sunol Glen tax boost vote

SUNOL — Three polling places have been setup for Tuesday's tax revenue increase measure for Sunol Glen School.

Sunol Glen is asking the area's approximately 300 registered voters for a 43-cent tax increase, to $2.50 per $100 assessed valuation, to prevent dircontinuing of library, nurse and cafeteria services. Superintendent-Principal George Bury also contends that if there is no increase in revenue, it will be necessary to double-up kindergarten, first and second grade classes.

The Sunol Glen Advisory Committee, which hosted the last of 16 informational coffees Wednesday night, has plotted what it would cost homeowners with various appraised values. For example, the yearly tax in 1975-76 for a person with a home valued at $30,000 would be 1975-76 would be $43.30.

The Citizens Advisory Committee is chaired by Preston Ledbetter.

At a Sunol Glen Board of Trustees meeting Monday night, Mrs. Aldora Peters announced her retirement. Mrs. Peters is a third grade teacher and has taught over 30 years at Sunol Glen and a total of 34 years.

Trustees also accepted donation of the old post office building to the school. It will be used jointly by the 4-H and school for storage of materials.

Trustees also discussed an increase in medical benefits for school staff members of approximately 12 per cent.

'What growth' is question as census figure doubles

What "growth freeze"? That is the question City of Pleasanton might be asking in the light of that special census which revealed, among other things, that this community experienced a whopping population jump between 1970 and 1975 — the years during which "the great sewer crisis" was supposed to have stifled much of the Amador Valley's growth.

Comparing "Pleasanton then and now," City Finance Director James Walker had some interesting information to offer the chamber of commerce on Tuesday.

◆ The city gained 13,339 residents in the five years since 1970. It had taken ten years — including those "soaring sixties" — to make a similar 13,000 population advance.

◆ Between 1960 and 1970 the city gained 3774 occupied dwelling units. From 1970 to the census in March of this year, Pleasanton gained 4396 dwelling units.

◆ This is still a community of single family homes, although the number of people per family unit has started to decline — from a 1970 peak of 3.7 people per household, to the 1975 census figure of 3.35 per household. That's a throwback to the 1960 census report of 3.31 members per household.

◆ The vacancy factor in Pleasanton is well below Bay Area averages, pegged at just 3.7 percent in the single family home count for 1975, and an average of 4.5 percent including multiples.

Walker's review of the 1975 special census also offers some interesting information on the city as it shapes up today, compared to the projections made in the 1965 Pleasanton General Plan, for the city that was "supposed to be" in 1980. Those projections saw the Pleasanton of 1980 with 60,000 city residents, occupying 17,000 dwelling units, with an average occupancy of 3.53 people per household. It now appears the real Pleasanton of 1980 will fall well short of those goals, on all counts.

Homeowners in various subdivisions throughout the city might also find interest in these 1964 "cost per dwelling" figures compared to their present-day value: Pleasanton Valley homes in 1964 were selling from $20,300 to $23,000; Mission Park, $22,950 to $28,950; Amador Estates from $17,000; Pleasanton Heights from $25,000.

While single family home prices were not part of the 1975 census, still there was some input on the "total income per household" for specific areas of the city:

Pleasanton Valley would appear to hold the city's upper income bracket, with just over 70 percent of those households indicating total family income in excess of $15,000 per year. The largest block of PV homeowners — 32.4 percent — had family income over $20,000 a year.

Mission Park reported 60 percent of its households with income in excess of $15,000 annually, 12.4 percent of those in the "$30,000 and over" bracket.

Pleasanton Heights, one of the city's older neighborhoods (built in the 1950's) reported a modest 26 percent of its households earning $15,000 or more per year. Amador Estates, an area of "moderately priced homes," had 38 percent of its families reporting in excess of $15,000 income per year, although the largest category — 26.5 percent — was in the $10-to-$15,000 bracket. In each of these neighborhoods something more than 25 percent of the families declined to respond to the income question.

Amador Estates is also unique in that the "median age" for all residents in that neighborhood was 24, somewhat less than the city's median of 27 years. Pleasanton Heights on the other hand is a more mature area, with a median age of 27 for the males in the family, 32 for the females.

Insurance salesmen and dress shop owners will also be interested in knowing that the largest block of people in the city is made of women, ages 25 to 44.

'No strike winners' as parks take loss

By JOHN VANLANDINGHAM
Lesher News Bureau

"IN ANY STRIKE, there are no winners," commented Richard Trudeau, general manager of the strike-bound East Bay Regional Park District.

Perhaps the converse is true for the 1.7 million district taxpayer-users for they certainly are losing their hard-bought park services.

Trudeau and his limited staff of management personnel have labored mightily during the 51-day-old strike to keep the parks open and continue all the regular programs.

A POTENTIALLY devastating sympathy strike by district lifeguards was averted earlier this week when the lifeguards agreed to return to work under the neutral jurisdiction of the public safety department.

(District public safety officers or rangers settled with the district before the present employes strike began. They have their own police association, separate from the employes union, local 2428 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes.)

Two crucial tests to the district's ability to keep all the parks open are pending.

MEMORIAL DAY weekend is expected to draw thousands of East Bay residents into the 28 parks, taxing all the facilities and the ability of management personnel to meet their demands.

Trudeau says that only overnight camping and nature hikes have been suspended during the strike.

But the district board may have set the stage for a confrontation this week when it voted 5-2 to begin hiring the regular seasonal grounds keepers.

THESE EMPLOYES, hired to beef up district maintenance forces during the peak periods every year, are already being viewed as "strikebreakers" by the union.

To date the strike has been free of violence but the potential looms if these temporary employes attempt to cross picket lines and the union resists.

Union officials say only that they will deal with that problem when it arises.

BUT EVEN THE prospect of trouble is enough to deter park users.

William Baker, vice president of the Contra Costa Taxpayers Association, observed that these users must continue paying for the services even if the parks shut down.

"These services are available only through this public monopoly (the park district) and there aren't any other public or private alternatives for the taxpayer-users," he said.

VANDALISM HAS taken its toll. A $40,000 swim facility at Antioch's Contra Loma park was destroyed in an arson blaze, and although insured, must be replaced at a greater cost.

Many toilets have been broken and other vandalism has occurred, at a higher rate than usual. Regardless of who is responsible for all this property damage, it must be replaced by taxpayer-users who must also do without until it is replaced.

In Antioch, which has no municipal pool, the city's 30,000 inhabitants may have to swim elsewhere.

BAKER HAS CALLED the strike "a perfect example of why public employes shouldn't have the right to strike."

And some observers believe Trudeau gave away a strong bargaining position by not following the example of former Gov. Ronald Reagan, who threatened to fire anyone who struck.

In Reagan's case, state water project workers who struck were told they would no longer have a job if they went past their five days leave without authorization and the strike ended quietly on the sixth day.

But Trudeau is in a different position.

ALTHOUGH THE DISTRICT now operates on a 20-cent tax rate, much of the revenue must be spent on acquiring new parks, with little for maintenance and programs.

Before the year is out, district officials will be approaching East Bay legislators for some sort of financial help for programs and maintenance.

Demurrer answers city suit

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The demurrer filed by Alameda County in the City of Livermore's suit against the Local Agency Formation Commission was overruled in Alameda County Superior Court Monday.

Livermore filed the suit against LAFCO in protest of that body's decision to remove the Las Positas Valley from Livermore's sphere of influence. That action removed a major stumbling block for Harlan Geldermann, who is proposing to construct Las Positas New Town in that valley.

The county's demurrer claimed the city's complaint was "uncertain" and that the city was not seeking redress through the proper legal channel. The demurrer did not address the merits of the city's case but merely the legal route they are taking.

In his decision, Presiding Judge George W. Phillips, Jr. overruled that demurrer, stating the city's petition is "not uncertain." Judge Phillips gave the county 30 days in which to file an answer to Livermore's petition.

Duplication, drain dumps Contra Costa creation of commission on women status

By Diane Daniel
Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ--Duplication of effort and a drain on county funds have killed the drive to create a County Commission on the Status of Women.

The Board of Supervisors shot down the months-long campaign Tuesday with a 4-to-1 decision with Supervisor James Kenny of Richmond casting the lone supporting vote.

One of the key points of the decision came from Supervisor Warren Boggess of Concord who said, "I received no hard evidence of widespread deprivation among Contra Costa County women."

He also said, "There is a great deal of public resistance (to the commission), women are not unit4d in the request."

Calling the plan to fund a commission with $41,000 the first year "wasteful", the Concord representative said that would be a form of "redundance" since the same help and inf9rmation is already available through other sources.

Supporting this idea was Edmund Linscheid of Pittsburg who said the supervisors, themselves, as well as many other groups are there to answer needs pertaining to housing, employment credit and affirmative action.

Linscheid continued "It gets down to basics, is this really the responsibility of local taxpayers?"

He continued "Government can't do everything for everybody; taxpayers can't take on all the responsibility for all government."

He thought the supervisors should approve a voluntary commission without funding for staff and clerical assistance.

Supervisor Alfred Dias of San Pablo protested "Those in support (of the commission) were straightforward and honest enough with us to not ask for it without funding; we should be straightforward and honest enough with them not to create it unless we are going to fund it."

All, including Kenny, agreed that immediate funding would be impossible.

Dias said existing funding requests for fiscal 1975-76 will make it one of the tightest financial years in the county's history.

He pointed out that earlier in the day the supervisors unanimously approved an expenditure of $17,000 for an Agency on Aging.

Kenny opted that the commission be approved now with a guarantee of some type of funding, the exact amount to be determined during the next few months of budget study.

His motion died for lack of a second.

James Moriarty of Walnut Creek who missed the April 28 public hearing on the creation of a commission due to a Washington D.C. trip, said he was qualified to vote because he had studied the issue and met with representatives from both sides.

Water board seeks action from BASSA

OAKLAND - The Regional Water Quality Control Board again asked the Bay Arpa Sewage Services Agency Tuesday to conduct an investigation of which agency is capable of implementing a water management plan for the Alameda Creek Watershed above Niles Creek.

That request was first made in June of last year and, although BASSA has submitted progress reports on that investigation, RWQCB Executive Director Fred Dierker said he does not believe "BASSA's efforts have produced significant progress to date."

The regional board scheduled a public hearing for June 20 when BASSA hopefully will have completed its study.

Thp Livprmore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency has been designated as the agency most capable of implementing a water management plan for the Livermore-Amador Valley but the regional water board is now looking for a suitable agency to handle water pl in ACLAMEDA Creek Watershed areas which are not included in LAVWMA's jurisdiction.

Publisher's children sue on stock

Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ — The adult children of Contra Costa Times publisher Dean S. Lesher have sued Lesher, East Bay Newspapers Inc. of Walnut Creek, and Lesher Newspapers Inc. of Merced for a determination of stock ownership.

The suit, filed by Dean Stanley Lesher II of Walnut Creek, Cynthia Lesher Rice of San Francisco, and Melinda Kay Lesher of England, also names corporate secretary Virginia Ladd of East Bay Newspapers Inc., as a defendant.

The three younger Leshers allege that they own more shares of stock than their father contends they do.

Additionally, they allege that Lesher and Mrs. Ladd acting as a majority of East Bay Newspapers' board of directors, on Jan. 2, 1974, directed that stock certificates be reissued to show Lesher as majority stockholder.

The word "cancelled" was written across corporate documents showing ownership of stock by the three Lesher children, they allege.

As part of the suit, the three are asking for a judicial determination of whether that action by Lesher and Mrs. Ladd was proper.

The action ultimately appears to be aimed at control of the two corporations and the newspapers they publish.

Times publisher Lesher was in New Orleans attending the annual convention of the Suburban Newspapers of America.

Present will be consultants from Grunwald, Crawford & Associates, city council members and planning commissioners. The public may attend.

Scheduled for discussion tonight are task reports on "Population Projections and Economic Analysis" and "Housing." Both contain broad policy recommendations.

"Environmental Resources Management" is scheduled to be the topic of next Thurasday night's study session.

Staley finances revealed

LIVERMORE - City council appointee John Staley owns stock valued at more than $1,000 but less than $10,000 in three corporations, according to his Statements of Economic Interests.

Staley, a local attorney, also lists himself as sole proprietor of his law practice. His business is valued at more than $10,000 but less than $100,000.

The newest councilman filed his financial papers with the city clerk yesterday in accordance with the Moscone Bill and Proposition Nine.

That action entitles him to take his seat on the council in 10 days. As such, the June 2 meeting should be attended by its full five members.

Staley owns common stock in Design Collaborative Press, Inc., Wing Engineering Company and Intel Corporation, according to his statements.

He lists his home at 2681 Pillsbury Court as a real property interest, valued at more than $10,000 but less than $100,000. Also listed as real property interests, both valued at less than $10,000, are 386 S. P Street and 379 S. Livermore Avenue.

Staley also records he has cash deposits at the State Savings & Loan and Lloyd's Bank amounting to less than $10,000.

Under the "Income, Loans and Gifts (in excess of $250)" section of the Moscone Bill, Staley lists his legal services and his wife Sue's salary as a teacher at Granada High School. Both exceed $1,000, he states. (That is all he needs to indicate).

LIVERMORE - Planning commissioners continued until September a rezoning application for property at N. Livermore Avenue and Chestnut Street that would allow a convenience market on the property.

In other action taken at its meeting Tuesday night, the commission continued, at the request of the developer, for one month consideration of tentative tract maps for the Wagoner Farms area.

Prior to that action, however, commissioners considered recommending denial approval of the maps because of the limited remaining sewage treatment capacity of the city, according to Planning Director George Musso.

Two applications from the Alameda County zoning administrator also were recommended for denial.

One was for building site reduction at 2496 Vasco Road and the other for a freestanding sign at the Exxon gas station at 1253 Portola Avenue.

Amendments to the zoning ordinance as it pertains to political signs also were discussed and sent back to staff for two weeks for preparation of the final draft.

Justly proud of their accomplishments in the art of good eating are winners of the Alameda County Cowbelles Beef Cook-off: Lillian Marciel with the first place Honey Pepper Steak; Edgar Moret with second place Stuffed Steak; and Jo Stone with third place Mom's Meatloaf.

Judge Karen Rassmussen, a Cowbelle of discriminating taste, was convinced that Mom's Meatloaf was a winner after just a sampling.

Lilly of the Valley

LILLY AULT

There is nothing like sitting on the steps of the Danville Veteran's Building on a Sunday morning reading all the local newspapers while waiting for a parade to start. Scheduled for 10 a.m., we rushed to panville so we would not miss the performance of the local intermediate school band.

A good 45 minutes later, we heard the stomping of a horse down Hartz Street. Everyone rushed to the edge of the street in great excitement fully ready for the parade What appears? A one man horse show who upon being asked "where is the rest of the parade?" informed us that soon as he found a "beer joint" and got back to the tracks they would be coming.

He wasn't kidding, as it was another 25 or 30 minutes later when a greater stampede of horses was heard and approximately 100 or better horseback riders appeared doing their thing. This WAS the the parade.

If you can imagine that many horses leading a parade with no "clean-up" following, you have a good picture and aroma of what the rest of the parade was like !

The wait for the Wells Intermediate School Band of Dublin was well worth every moment, although, like any hmetown band, it all passed by much too quickly. The presentation in front of the review stand was exceptionally good which made someone in the audience comment, "they are the caliber of a high school band."

The credit of these 130 strong performers goes to Jerry Lipenski, music decided director at Wells Intermediate. Lipenski he would form a band to march in the "Good Times" parade. He had students trying out for the band with each one chosen expected to give a command performance as well as be able to follow directions and act like an adult.

Lipenski wasn't easy on the recruits, but he got out of the youngsters what he wanted and knew they could do. Too bad more teachers aren't like him. Kids can perform to the best of their ability when they know nothing less will be accepted.

After making his selection, the performers had four days of practice to be ready for the "Good Times" parade. This not only meant playing well, but marching in straight lines and having their uniforms, a pair of blue jeans well creased that had never been washed, a specially ordered "T" shirt with "Well's Roadrunners" on it, blue ad and white tennis shoes topped off with a white cap, in tip top shape. A unique, inexpensive, attractive appearing uniform for this age group was a wise choice on Mr. L's part.

Lipenski's outstanding job in getting his 130 seventh and ighth graders in striking performing condition was noted by Mike Cleary of KNBR during his boradcasting of the "GT" parade. The DJ was not the only one who appreciated this group, as along the parade route they were well received. In fact one spectator thought they were so good, she invited the "Roadrunners" to appear in the Danville parade. They also appeared in a parade in Santa Rosa on Raturday

Lipenski is to be commended for the extra time he gave to organizing this band as well as his patience in dealing with these kids as at this particular age, you're lucky if you can even get the kids to listen while you speak.

By the way, Lipenski, is the young gentleman in charge of forming a mz ntennial band. If he does as well at forming that one as the Wells band, the Valley is in for a good Bicentennial band, I'd say.

Livermore Juniors for Bloodmobile

The Livermore Junior Women's Club is sponsoring a Bloodmobile Awareness Drive. Each month 3,500 units of blood are needed to meet the blood requirements of 34 hospitals in Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

The Bloodmobile Unit is in Livermore on the first Tuesday of every even month. It's next visit will be June 3 at the Livermore Recreation Center from 2 p.m to 6:30 p.m. A plea is made to residents to donate at this time and as often as they are able.

Whole blood is not transfusable after 21 days old. The NEED for blood is constant. Blood units used must be replaced by blood, hospitals cannot transfuse dollars.

For more information on donating blood, contact the Blood Bank of Alameda — Contra Costa Medical Association, 654-5383 or Health Chairman of the Livermore Junior Women's Club, Sharon Joyce, 443—5618.

Eye-appeal, taste, economy and originality of each entry were weighed by Judge Joan Matsen.

Cook-Off dishes earn accolades

Honey Pepper Steak, a colorful and tantalizing round steak dish with a slightly Oriental flavor, was the judges' choice at the Alameda County Cowbelle Beef Cook-off, and Lillian Marciel was the winning cook.

Her economical masterpiece earned Lillian a $30 beef gift certificate and a chance to compete in the Cowbelle's regional recipe contest, just a step away from the $1,000 prize at the national competition in Denver, Colo. Secret ingredient in the culinary delight which incoporates fresh mushrooms and bean sprouts, is (you guessed it!) honey. Color is added with a topping of fresh diced tomatoe added after the dish is cooked.

Running a close second was Edgar Moret's Stuffed Steak. As one might expect, the creator of such an elegant dish is an expert. Edgar, a retired civil service employee, loves to cook and has promised to make a strong bid for first place in next year's contest.

Hardly to be outdone, was Jo Stone who performed the small miracle of making Mom's Meatloaf a prizewinner, and captured third place.

All winners received gift certificates, wine and a wealth of information on how to make tasty beef dishes from the Cowbelles.

Dublin students not apathetic

The oft-heard phrase that kids in Dublin are apathetic may have to undergo some revision.

A group of 25 seventh graders at Wells Intermediate School have been scouring the schools in the Murray Elementary School District in order to get students — and parents — to come to a special benefit showing of two movies this Saturday.

Admission to "The Misadventures of Merlin Jones" and "The Golf Specialist" with W. C. Fields will cost $1 and showtime is 1:30 p.m. at Wells and the proceeds are earmarked for hungry children throughout the world.

The idea of the benefit show — and a bake sale later on this year — came to life after the seventh graders at Wells took part in a Hunger Day project in which students had to eat what passes for food in Bangladesh, Ethiopia and other protein-hungry areas of the world.

The taste and lack of nutritional value in the meals that starving children throughout the world eat as opposed to the high caloric and sweet American food struck home and several students decided to do more than just remember how awful it tasted.

With the help of Bill Berk and Dan Tilton, two teachers at Wells, a group of 12 students started working on ways to raise money for starving children overseas.

Chairpersons Robin Penna, Cheryl Mohondro, Jerry Fikes and Barbra Furqueron set up trips to all nine schools in MESD so that their helpers Janey Hutchings, Kathy MacKay, Charlene Schillizzi, Kathy Hodsdon, Jennifer Rimshaw, Linda Christensen and Jackie Alcalde could talk to students throughout the district about hunger in the world.

Then the seventh graders would put up posters and remind the younger students about the two movies this Saturday. They hope to raise three to four hundred dollars through admission tickets and refreshment sales.

Realistically, they admit that their $300 won't solve the problems of many of the millions of starving people in the world but at least, as Schillizzi put it, "we're doing our part".

And they're asking others to help out by supporting those two films this Saturday.

Music fills Amador

Amador High students Gwen Wendell, Dorri Somersett, and Dianne Valdix tune their voices to Pete Simms' guitar in preparation for a choral music presentation tonight at 8 in the Amador High School auditorium. The Girls' Jazz Choir will perform with the Turlock High School Choir. Tickets are 50 cents for students, $1 for adults, benefitting the United Singers of Amador.

Preparing for Louisiana

Don Carlson, manager of the Dublin Crocker Bank, earlier this week presented a $25 check to talented Dubliner Angela Rosas to help defray expenses for her forthcoming trip to Louisiana. Angela will vie for this year's "World's Ideal Miss" crown in Baton Rouge Aug. 10-15. Contestants are judged on talent, poise and personality. Angela, who recently placed first in the senior division of the San Ramon - Amador Valley Exchange Club's local Search for Talent, was seated in the top ten in last year's Ideal Miss competition. The winner receives a $2,000 college scholarship, as well as the honor of being The Ideal Teenage Girl. Contributions — Don's was on behalf of Crocker Bank — may be made out to Angela Rosas and sent to Crocker Bank, 7181 Regional St., Dublin. Note "Universal Pageants," sponsors of the contest, somewhere on the check, Don adds.

Net instruction

PLEASANTON - A junior tennis instruction program will be offered the first six weeks of the summer at Amador Valley High School.

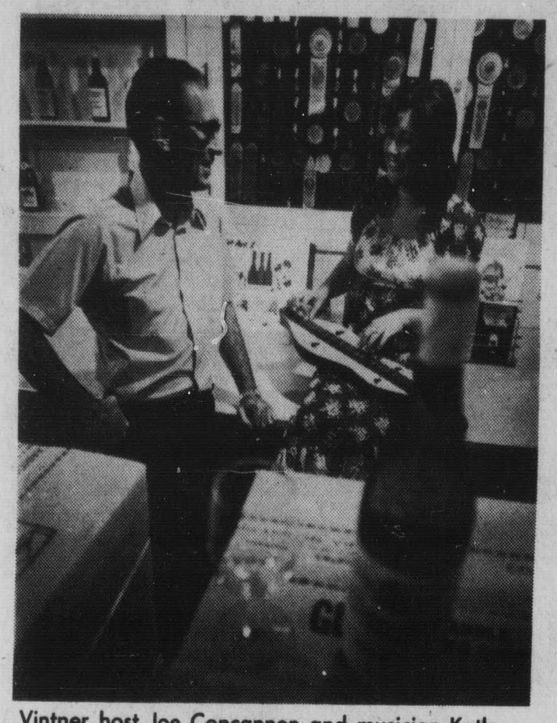
Holiday of fine arts and fun at Art in Vineyard

A Sunday afternoon of art, music, wine-tasting and crafts under the shade trees at Concannon's Vineyard in Livermore will highlight the Memorial Day weekend.

The informal, admission-free Art in the Vineyard fair is sponsored by the Livermore Art Association. Last year the fair attracted more than 3,000 visitors from around the Bay Area.



Vintner host Joe Concannon and musician Kathy Dalbacka.

This year visitors may mingle with artists and musicians from noon to 5 p.m. May 25, as they taste select table wines from the vineyard, and sample cheese, salami, French bread and lemonade served by the Livermore Junior Women.

Art and crafts by professionals and non-professionals on exhibit on the vineyard grounds includes oils, watercolors, graphics, acrylics, serigraphs, pottery, metal and wood sculpture, macrame, jewelry, leatherwork, stained glass, dough art, textiles, batik, needlework, redwood tables and zipper art. Artists will be on hand for a leisurely chat and a demonstration of their media techniques.

The Wayside Weavers guild will again stage the unique Sheep to Shawl event from 1 to 3 p.m. Fleece will be shorn from the sheep, washed, sorted and dyed, carded and handspun on antique spinning wheels and drop spindles. The process, which duplicates an 18th century technique, is completed with the weaving of the yarn into textiles.

A special demonstration table will display woven end-products, executed in various weaving procedures, as well as coil and twine baskets. The baskets represent an ancient art of Indian basket weaving incorporating yarn, beads, feathers and shells.

The countryside atmosphere will be further enhanced by musical entertainment featuring Flamenco guitarist Norman Castaneda, Kathy Dahlbacka on the dulcimer, and sisters Frances and Melody Francis on flute and violin. Children and adults will delight to mime artist David Cooper, and the Laughing Cricket Puppet Theater under the direction of Lucille Musso.

Cartoonist Mary Kion of LAA will entertain with free character drawings.

Art association members have donated art and craft items for a drawing, with donations for tickets to fund the LAA art scholarship. Tickets are now available through Rita Langhorst at 447-2031 or at the LAA Gallery in Livermore's Carnegie Building.

The historic Concannon Winery, often an inspiration to local artists, will be the setting of the annual Art in the Vineyard fair Sunday afternoon.

LAA member and craft enthusiast Barbara Parks will offer for sale at the fair her original creations for children in the form of long-legged frogs, patchwork dogs, Humpty-Dumptys and multi-colored alligators.

Guest cellist plays in final symphony

Cellist Garfield Moore of Oakland will be the guest soloist at the final concert of the season for the Livermore-Amador Symphony Saturday, May 31 at Livermore High School auditorium.

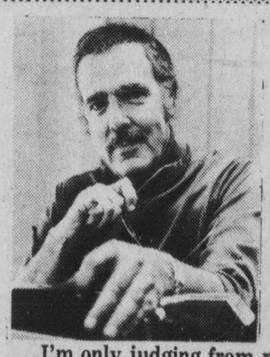
SETTING THE SCENE



Bill Hayden

The whole thing was a disaster. It isn't often I can't find at least one redeeming feature in a form of entertainment. Last Monday's "Emmy" presentations gave me a rare opportunity to dust off my "zero" and use it happily.

In more than two decades, the so-called TV industry has learned nothing from its own mistakes or from the errors of others. I don't even want to know who was responsible. It might prejudice any future opinions I might have for their efforts. The first thing I would suggest, however, is that dear old Dr. Pepper be given a healthy adjustment on all the money they put into the major sponsorship slot.

The direction was shoddy. Technically, the show was ragged and that voice of doom off-stage who kept announcing that so-and-so was not present but would happily accept their award should have been throttled after the first absentee was mentioned. As a matter of fact, the only people who really came off well were the ones who had the good sense, or the necessity, not to be there.

I have never spent such a "long" two hours plus in my life. Johnny Carson bowed out of competition, supposedly in a huff over being placed in a category that would have assured him losing again. I'm not so sure he didn't get out because there were just too many categories and classifications. After every fanfare, I expected a formal announcement of the nominees for best custodian at NBC, CBS and ABC. All this would have been followed by a scrambling for a missing contact lens while the presenter tried to read the card.

I'm only judging from my personal reaction, but there was a stiff frozen smile on the faces of several of the more talented types who I am sure felt totally trapped by the nonsense and just hoped it would all be over before a roving camera happened to pick up their expensive faces once again.

There were so many nominations in so many categories my mind boggles at the effort to keep them straight. I recall a charming acceptance speech from a lovely English lady from "Upstairs, Downstairs"; a brief, and poignant comment by Tony Randall which indicated that he appreciated the award but would rather have a job. Ed Azner rambled on and on about not having been up there for 3 years which didn't do much for his image in my estimation.

There was one happy moment when somebody in the long process of getting the awards on the road did something right. They gave the best actor kudo to Sir Laurence Olivier (strange, I thought he was Lord Olivier) and to Katherine Hepburn, who with or without title, has to be the greatest living actress in this or any country.

For a brief time it brought back a recollection of that beautiful pair of performances in one of the most literate scripts it has ever been my pleasure to hear, let alone see. I was happy that neither star was able to be present to be embarrassed.

TV has, for a very long time, had its collective nose high in the air over the superiority of their know-how. A couple of Academy Award presentations have been roundly roasted for their ineptness. Monday night more than evened the score. This year's Academy show was an 'Academy Award Winner' by comparison.

Even the set was gauche. Cheapness and gaudiness, I assume thy name is also TV. Let's set up a novena to better production for next year's show and do it in a hurry.

One of the saddest bits of all was dragging Groucho Marx out for the comedy presentation. Groucho may be irrascibile, ancient and vague, but to give him the treatment Lucille Ball handed out was beneath contempt in spite of whatever difficulties she encountered. It was always my understanding she was the great lady with the warm and wonderful heart. Monday night it didn't show.

At this point in time I apologize to Groucho and to all the millions who suffered through to the end. For a lover of all things theatrical, this is a difficult thing for me to say, "It wasn't worth it."

South had been taught to say "Thank you, partner" irrespective of what cards his partner put down as dummy. This time the dummy was well worth that polite, but unnecessary remark.

When the hand was over and South had been set, North remarked, "It is a shame they taught you politeness instead of bridge."

South's play had been short and unsuccessful. He won the club in dummy and led a trump. West took his ace and led a second club. East was unkind enough to ruff and that was all there was.

Just a little thought before playing to trick two might well have warned South of his danger. A little more thought would have shown him how to guard against a club ruff.

It wouldn't have to be much thought at all. Just a quick look at dummy's king of hearts.

Then South could have led a heart to his ace, cashed his ace of diamonds, ruffed his low diamond, discarded his last club on the king of hearts and then gone after trumps with the club danger a thing of the past.

Winds hamper NCS track efforts

For those who have often wondered whether a pole vaulter could propel himself from the runway at Dublin High School to the exercise yard at Santa Rita, Friday's North Coast Division II track finals are a must.

There is no reason to suppose that the 25-30 miles - per - hour wind, which filled every exposed pore with fine white dust at yesterday's trials, will magically subside at exactly 3:00 Friday afternoon. Consequently, the level of competition, not to mention individual marks, should place Division II athletes at a disadvantage in the North Coast Section meeting, next stop on the way to the State Championships.

At North Coast, as at State, heats will be seeded according to qualifying marks 8.

Yesterday's action produced few surprises, as Pittsburg hurdler Frank Unpingco turned in the fastest time in the varsity 330 lows, 39.1. He did the same in the 120 highs, winning his heat with a wind-aided 14.6.

San Ramon's Jerry Rascano, who came second to Unpingco in the lows with 40.6, and Granada's Scott Campbell, who won heat two in 41.0, will press the EBAL's case in the u-turn event.

San Ramon's Matt Priewe fought the gusts on the backstretch for a 52.0, best among the varsity quartermilers.

Finals were held in all Frosh-Soph-B field events, with EBAL athletes overshadowed in each competition. However, Craig Cline of California High turned in an encouraging personal best and school record 20-11 for third in the long jump.

San Ramon tops in EBAL girls tennis

Regular season champion San Ramon High dominated the girls league meet as expected, but a couple of Livermore girls saw to it that they did not make a clean sweep of the afternoon yesterday at the second annual East Bay Athletic League Tennis meet for girls, held on the Amador Valley High courts. Top seeded Carmelita de Urioste won the first singles as expected, as did her San Ramon teammate Keely Powell in the second singles.

In the doubles competition it was a different story, as Livermore's Robin Day and Lindsay Patton dumped Debbie Fritts and Judy Bianchi in the semi-finals.The Livermore duo could not keep their momentum going and lost to Amador Valley's Denice Crall and Lisa Estrada in the finals.

Miss de Urioste had an easy time of it in her final match as she upended Livermore High freshman Lori Larson 6-1,7-5. de Urioste's toughest battle came in the semi-finals when the Dons top player, Karin Kulink extended her to 6-7,6-2,6-2 before falling.

Notably missing from the first singles competition was the Granada High standout, Cathe Corallo. Miss Corallo who played first singles throughout the campaign for the Mats was seeded second in the division and hadhanded de Urioste her only setback of the season, last Friday at Granada. It was in that match that Corallo pulled some ligaments in her leg that sidelined her from yesterday's event.

The Wolves Miss Powell made it two in a row for the San Ramon contingent as she rolled to a 7-5,6-2 victory over her cross-town rival, Monte Vista's Jani Cronin.

Powell had a breather in the semi-finals as she blasted Livermore's Sally Edwards 6-0,6-3. Miss Cronin had an even easier time of it, dispatchingStephanie Sibilia of Dublin 6-0,6-1.

Day and Patton, who normally compete in the first and second doubles slots for the Pokes, joined forces to upset the Wolves Fritts and Bianchi 6-4,6-7,7-6. The Livermore couple who played over 100 games on the afternon fell short in trying to upend the Don's Crall and Estrada in the finals.Earlier in the afternoon Crall and Estrada smashed Kei Shirato and Michelle Moy of Monte Vista 6-3,6-4 to make the finals.

Foods feeds on fence busters

Blair Foods had something for the long-ball gourmet Tuesday night, clobbering Livermore Station, 15-11.

The Blairs crashed three home runs, including two by Mike Sorini, and back-to-back rockets by Sorini and Corey Knapp in the fifth inning.

Blair scored 10 times in the fifth to break the game open. Sorini finished the game with three RBI;s, and Mike Orr, two.

Ray Borges chased home three runs for the Station, and Cleve Dolan, four.

The Godfathers scored four times in the second inning, then watched their lead crumble in a 7-4 loss to Nazarene Church. Nazarene rallied for four runs in the fourth inning, thanks to run-scoring by Rick Nultemeier and Vern Englund. Nultemeier and Vern Blakesley had three hits apiece.

Amfac outlasted Team Turkey, 14-10, surviving the atomic blasts of Turkey Francis Meyer. Meyer hit three, three-run homers. He confounded everyone by striking out in his final at bat.

Summer tennis

Advanced registration may be made by phone for the Pleasanton Junior Summer Tennis Program, beginning its 11th year of training for youngsters.

Three two-week sessions will be offered, June 16-27, June 30-July 11, and July 14-25.

Classes are Monday through Friday, 45 minutes per day.

Don Smith, Jeff Yparraguierre, Andy Finn, Wendy Sheldon, Art Brannan and Mark Allen are instructors.

Seven-eleven, 25-11

Marvin's Seven-Eleven opened the Dublin Women Softball season convincingly with a 25-11 victory over Bug Stuff.

Diane Dolley had five hits, including a home run, and eight runs-batted-in. Nonna Thomsen and Marcia Thompson both lashed out two hits.

Bug Stuff's Barb Gray had two hits, and Bev Hayes, three RBI's.

Ng sheds cast for girls North Coast track

Pain permitting, Paula Ng will run for Livermore High today in the North Coast Girls Track Meet at Campolindo High.

The Cowboy freshman qualified as a hardship case for this meet in the 100 and 220, and the long jump.

If her damaged ankle, fresh out of a cast, can withstand the strain, she'll compete in the running events this afternoon. She is doubtful in the long jump.

Paula, who is undergoing treatments on the ankle at Cal State Hayward, missed the EBAL finals last week. Monday, she won the 100 and 220 hardship races by forfeit, when her opposition failed to show.

She was defeated in the 80-yard low hurdles.

Highlight of the meet should be Pleasant Hill miler Kathy Costello who set the national high school record earlier this season.

Dianna Stohr of Granada leads the EBAL field into the North Coast competition She qualified last week in four events.

HOW TO MAKE A SPLASH! SEE PAGE 12

Richardson hurls — again

Keith Richardson won a Prep of the Week award for pitching Livermore High to the EBAL baseball championship six days ago, but someone will have to dream up a new honor if he can carry the Cowboys to the North Coast baseball championship.

Right-hander Richardson will be on the mound this afternoon at 4 p.m when Livermore faces Alhambra at St. Mary's College in the first ever North Coast playoff.

The winner advances to a Saturday ball game at the same site against either Pleasant Hill or Ygnacio Valley.

Richardson will be making his fifth consecutive start for Livermore, and will be seeking his fourth straight victory. He is also working on a string of 14 scoreless innings.

The tireless senior, who worked three complete games in an eight day span to carry Livermore to the EBAL title, will be matched against one of the East Bay's highly publicized pro prospects, DeVallon Harper.

Harper, a 6-2 195 pound right-hander, posted a 7-2 record in earning Alhambra the Foothill Athletic League championship. His only losses were by scores of 2-1, and 4-3. Harper was also the quarterback on Alhambra's FAL championship football team.

The Bulldogs won the FAL pennant by taking 15 straight games through Tuesday's 13-11 defeat of Acalanes. They cinched the crown with a 2-1 win over Miramonte Monday that was decided in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Phill Harrington bunted to third base, and scored Keith Talamentez alh way from second with the winning run. Catcher Kirk Ripee, another pro prospect, and next to Harper, Alhambra's most vital player, singled in the first run against Miramonte.

The fourth-rated Bulldogs have a fine shortstop, Jim Flores, who is endangering the .400 mark as a batter. In case Harper falters, they can rescue him with Dave Baum, 5-0 in the FAL. He pitched a no-hitter a week ago against Del Valle; a club that a trio of 'Poke pitchers also no-hit.

Livermore, on the other hand, waited until the final day of the season, and beyond, to insure its pennant. The Cowboys took a half-game lead over Monte Vista last Friday by clobbering the Mustangs, 5-0.

Monte Vista blew a chance for a title tie when it dropped a 1-0 makeup contest to Dublin Monday.

Livermore was not a power-hitting team for most of the EBAL campaign, but erupted against Monte Vista's top pitcher, Chris Dudley . Wayne Perry homered and tripled in that game, and appears to be peaking at the plate just in time for the North Coast playoffs. Third place hitter Rich Palmer crashed a terrific triple in the Mustang game, and could be coming out of a season-long slump.

One of the forgotten men in the Cowboy lineup third baseman Dan Wood, could be of immeasureable help to Richardson. He has been a solid, if not spectacular fielder all season long. That may prove important if Alhambra continues to bunt the ball.

Wood has also been a reliable hitter, and along with Scott Graver, can give Livermore run-producing potential near the end of the batting order.

Commentary

NBA on CBS— more or less

By DAVE WEBER

Golden State Warrior's broadcaster Bill King had a bit of self-promotional advice for armchair fans once the club began to appear regularly on CBS television's NBA playoff cnverage.

And with the Warriors holding a stunning, and commanding, two-zip lead over the Washington Bullets heading into tomorrow's sold out third game of the championship series at Daly City's Cow Palace it becomes timely.

King urged his listeners to turn on the CBS picture while turning off the sound of the "national glamour boys" and, instead, listen to his own fine commentary.

It is an excellent suggestion.

A quick glance at the CBS crew leaves one wondering if somehow a team of freshman telecommunications students managed to weasel their way onto the airwaves of the nation's largest commercial network.

Chief play-by-play man Brent Mussberger is adequate in his game description but a total failure in his apparent hobby of socio-political comment.

It's difficult to forget the early season telecast, soon after the appointment of Simon Gourdine to the post of Deputy Comissioner of the NBA, when the Chicago resident turned to color man — no pun intended — Oscar Robertson and marveled, "Oscar, you black people are sure making progress in the field of sports management!"

He followed this up Sunday by captioning a split screen view of Golden State's Al Attles and Washington's K.C. Jones thusly, "Two black coaches squaring off in one of the biggest sporting events of the year and no one's made much of it — now that's progress!"

Tuesday night Mussberger capped a fine season at the mike. As the early evening tussle wore down, Brent inquired of Robertson, "Say Oscar, when are you going to introduce me to that soul food?"

At the opposite end of the spectrum is CBS Basketball Editor, Sonny Hill, a former Syracuse National player who seems bent on awing the fans with both his knowledge of the game and ghetto slang.

"Back where I come from," Hill has said, "we'd say that shot was in your eye, my man." OK, that's colorful.

But an interview with the Bullets Kevin Porter before the Boston series also stands out. Hill called the hot tempered guard aside in the junior high school gym where Washington was practicing for the Eastern Conference final and initiated the following conversation:

SH: Kevin Porter, slip on over here my man. What it is blood? Y'all sho' 'nuff played some ball against Buffalo.

KP: Thank you, Sonny, we're just glad we were fortunate enough to win.

SH: Well, brother, down on the corner we would have called what you guys did, "runnin' it right at 'em".

KP: We just tried to move the ball as much as we could.

Hill then tried to involve Elvin Hayes in the dialogue, but the devoutly religious Big E proved even more straight as a speaker than the little dude.

Then there is back-up play-by-play man Don Criqui and his wishy-washy form of ineptitude.

In the Warriors sixth game win over Chicago, former Western Basketball Association center George Johnson pulled a ball off the rim that was obviously about to drop and rammed in a dunk of his own, an offensive interference violation.

The officials called it and Criqui raved:

"Johnson's been in there for eight minutes and I'm surprised it hasn't hurt the Warriors more. They can't afford to have Clifford Ray in foul trouble."

Moments later "Newby" skyed to swat away a Chet Walker shot, then grabbed Norm Van Lier's unsuccessful follow.

Criqui now chirped a different tune: "Boy, that Johnson's something. For a big man he can really jump; he's 6-11 yet you'd swear he could jump 14 feet into the air. He'll be around this league for a while."

What's the poor viewer to do — average the two critiques?

Mussberger would be OK if he stopped trying to prove how liberal he is, Hill would be OK if he stopped trying to show how hip he is and Criqui would be OK if he stopped trying to pretend he knows a 24-second clock from a goalpost.

But don't count on that happening.

No, Oscar Oscar hasn't been forgotten. There's a riddle making the rounds about the former NBA backcourt great.

Why is Oscar Robertson called the "Big O?" Because, after every superb shot he goes, "Oooooooooooooh, what a shot, Brent!"

Amazons crack 16 hits to win

The Amazons pounded out 16 base hits and defeated the Creamcups, 10-6 in Pleasanton Bobby Sox softball.

Ann Gabrielson, with four hits including two doubles, led the Amazon offense. Donna Guglielmo had four hits and a double. Mary Hansen and Jayne Kuhns each had two hits.

Wendy Behrbaum singled twice for the Creamcups, and Lauri Morley doubled.

The Marigolds staggered past the Woodrens, 25-21 Michele Rose dorve in two runs with a pair of singles. Tracy Blalock singled home one run for the Woodrens. Leann Bilke and Christie Wood, along with Alice Wood, were the top defensive players.

The Woodrens defeated the Sweetpeas, 25-18, on Jill Weingheimer's four hits. Lezlie Lorty, Kelly Hale and Leann Bilke played fine defense. Susan Hutzler struck out 11 for the Sweet Peas.

Lynn Fleckenstein's outfield catch preserved the Thunderbirds' 7-6 win over the Royales. Cindy Stout and Tracy Girard both had three hits to pace the T-Birds. Teresa Sanders pitched a six-hitter.

Coming up with six runs in the seventh inning, the Rinky Dinks beat the Blue Jeans, 21-20. Robin Penna crashed a grand slam, and teammate Lisa Leach drove in four runs. For the Jeans, Narrine Martinsen homered and drove in three runs.

DU socks Celts

Dublin United advanced to the finals of the Western Regional Soccer Playoffs last weekend with a 5-2 rout of the West Valley Celtics.

Bob Klein scored twice for coach Bob Wagonhoffer's team. Luke Bryant, John Downing and Pete Mangini scored for the under-16 powerhouse.

Brokers fall to 6-4 gem

Doug Jones threw five innings of two-hit shutout baseball, and his relief pitched just well enough to insure Grutman's a 6-4 Pleasanton National senior league win over Allied Brokers Tuesday.

Pat Geck cinched the victory for Jones with a three-run homer in the top of the third inning. Jeff Taylor doubled for the Pirates.

The Braves rallied for their four runs in the sixth inning. Greg Costello singled home one of the scores.

Aero Appliance rocked Reynold's Metals, 14-3, as Nate Kortan crashed two home runs and a double, and drove in six runs. Mark Hofrys of the Metal team hit a solo-homer and also doubled.

McDonald's Paints outlasted Irby's Dairy in the major leagues, 13-11. Carlton Hagmaier crashed a three-run home run for the winners, and Mike Getty drove in two runs with a pair of doubles. Winning pitcher Al Wesir struck out nine in the four innings he worked.

The Triple A VIP Dodgers beat the Pirates, 17-10. Randy Miller drove in four Pirate runs.

More sports on page 12

In the Double A, Jeff Wilson pitched the Dodgers past the Pirates, 11-1. He allowed just three base hits. Tom Jones and Glen Grisso each drove in two runs. Mel Grisel of the Bucs played fine defense.

Scoring three runs in the last of the seventh inning, the Single A Pirates overhauled the Dodgers, 7-6. Dan McPherson singled up the middle to chase Will Hayes home with the winning run. Lynn Shipman had four RBI's for the Dodgers.

Pleasanton American

Ed Kinyon and Gregg Doherty were staked to a 10-0 lead after three innings, and pitched Copy Quick to a 10-1 win over Tarus Craft in the Pleasanton American major leagues Tuesday.

Dave Gottschalk was the big batter in the Angels' five-hit attack.

The Four-A Yankees defeated the Angels, 23-8. Cris Jensen tripled and singled and drove in five runs. He also pitched a four-hitter. Damon Connolly of the Yanks, and the Angels' Mike Deleray doubled.

Alan Larson and Ken Harris teammed up for a two-hitter in Double A as Valley Realty blanked the Yankees, 10-0. Larson struck out eight. Wade Weise belted a solo home run, and Dan Maslana doubled twice. Rob Gates and Ken Harris led the Yankee defense.

The Angels beat the Yankees, 22-5. Kevin Mayn doubled and homered, his second home run in two games. Matt Scherer, Dennis Glafkides and Dean Bomberg tripled.

Livermore National

Emperor's Garden pitchers limited Palomart to two base hits and walked off with a 4-3 victory in the Livermore National major leagues Tuesday.

Jerry Bacon was the winning pitcher.

Ben Whittington drove in two runs for Emperor's, although he failed to get a base hit. Teammates Cliff Walkup and Matt Norman knocked in the other scores.

Jeff York tripled for Palomart.

The senior league's Lone Star team toppled Pizza Arcade, 15-5, as Roger Bowers hurled a four-hitter. Joe DelArosa homered and singled and drove in three runs for Lone Star. George Kilmer doubled home another run, and George Bowers had an RBI with three base hits.

Diamond International of the minor leagues defeated the Foresters, 21-10. Jeff Brandt drove in five runs, and Paul Alderman, three. The Foresters' James Norwood had three RBI's.

Side Pocket edged by Associated Professions, 9-6, as Steve Coeville, Scott Russell and John Browning all had two hits. Tim Zimmer doubled for A.P.

Growing best ball upcoming

The Livermore City Two-Man Best Ball golf championship was one of the Bay Area's largest tournaments last year, and it could grow in stature to become number one this June.

The third annual City Two-Man gets underway June 7 and 8 at Las Positas Golf Course with handicap flight play. It will be followed June 14 and 15 by the championship rounds.

Last year's tournament drew 328 golfers, and the numbers are expected to swell, because the event now a Northern California Golf Association point tournament. Top finishers can earn points toward the NorCal championship.

Defending champions are two collegiate golfers, Paul Hahn of Paso Robles, and San Jose's Dan Thames. They fired a two-day total of 135 last year, nine-under par at Las Positas.

Among early entrants this year are Contra Costa's Morgan Barofsky and Steve Stymac. Ray Pellegrini and Jay Matalich of Olympic Club are also in the field.

Entries are still open for the tournament, but the deadline is June 1.

Pick up entry blanks at Las Positas Golf Course. For information, call 443-3122.

Foreman dec. Clay!

A divorce suit filed by a Pleasanton woman against former heavyweight boxing champion George Foreman was thrown out by a Superior Court Judge in Los Angeles this week when he ruled Foreman was never married.

Suit was filed by Pamela Clay, daughter of former Foreman associate Moses Clay.

She said in the suit that she and Foreman lived together for most of last year. According to the woman, she married Foreman in December of 1973, but they seperated last summer.

She admitted later, however, that no marriage ceremony was ever conducted. She sought a share of community property totalling more than $10 million.

You Need Professional Help

First off, you may wonder what we mean by a pro. Essentially we're talking about the well informed pool dealer who knows and cares about the products he sells. A swimming pool is a somewhat complicated piece of equipment and the advice you need to keep it in tip top shape doesn't come from that impersonal "shelf" at the supermarket. A pro is staffed and equipped to install, service and consult with you on equipment you buy for your pool.

SALE PRICES – Although the weather has been slow in turning hot, it now has and your Pool Pro Dealer is celebrating by offering sale prices to match. The prices listed below should be reason enough to visit your Pro.
